

Press Release
The International Aspirin Foundation welcomes Professor Daniel José Piñeiro as an associate member for South America

Professor Daniel José Piñeiro joins the International Aspirin Foundation (IAF) as associate member for South America. In this capacity he will provide a link to information and research about aspirin in South America and will help the IAF achieve its international role.

Daniel Piñeiro is Professor of Medicine at Universidad de Buenos Aires, Argentina and a Trustee for the American College of Cardiology. He has over 40 years of experience as a medical doctor, teacher and researcher. He is an active participant at international meetings, sits on ten editorial boards and has over 100 full article publications. He will bring a wealth of knowledge to IAF and add an important geographical perspective.

Professor Lina Badimon, of the International Aspirin Foundation's Scientific Advisory Board states; "We are delighted to welcome Professor Piñeiro as associate member of the IAF, where he will help us fulfil our quest to coordinate world-wide research and understanding of aspirin. We look forward to working with Professor Piñeiro to gain a greater insight into aspirin work in South America."

Editorial Notes

The International Aspirin Foundation, founded in 1974, aims to increase the knowledge and understanding of aspirin. The International Aspirin Foundation helps coordinate current world-wide awareness and increasing medical research interest in this vitally important medicine by stimulating the distribution and exchange of information and discussion on all aspects of aspirin, including current research as well as old and new therapeutic uses for it.
